

In re Ramirez,
BUPL No. UPL 91-16 (1993)

Following investigation and report with recommendations by the Office of Disciplinary Counsel, and consideration by the Board, it was held that paralegals who represented persons at administrative hearings before the Delaware Department of Health and Social Services pursuant to specific federal regulations did not constitute the unauthorized practice of law, since the Board was not free to take action which could contravene an express federal regulation.